

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

A mission for the Polish-speaking people of St. James' parish was opened Sunday evening and will continue until Thursday morning. Within the past decade a considerable Polish population has located in Danielson and other territory included in the parish and this mission is being given by Rev. Charles Litowski, a native of Galicia, which territory figures prominently during the world war. Following the services of Sunday evening there are to be morning and evening services during Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The mission follows three weeks of missions conducted recently by missionary fathers of LaSalette for the English and French-speaking people of St. James' parish of which Rev. John Roux, M. S., is pastor.

Chief Machinist James Foley, U. S. N., has been spending a few days with friends in Danielson, where he was employed for several years before entering the navy at the time the United States entered the world war.

Following the war Mr. Foley returned here and re-entered civilian life, but the call of the navy was strong upon him and during 1917 he was stationed for the period of one year and has since been listed for a period of four years. Chief Machinist Foley is a petty officer of chief rating on the United States ammunition and supply ship, USS, now at Hampton Roads. Within the past year he has visited a number of South American, Central American and Panama Canal ports, as well as making trips to the Pacific coast stations of the navy. Within a month he is to sail for the Philippines, and does not expect to return to the United States within from one to two years.

Leon M. Ferrin, 29, a graduate of Harvard university, and who has taken special courses at Yale and Boston universities, is to be the new supervisor of schools in the district comprising the towns of Killingly and Brooklyn, as successor to Horace P. Turner, who recently resigned to become superintendent of schools in Massachusetts.

Mr. Ferrin is to come here from Holliston, Mass., where he has been principal of the high school. The state board of education of Connecticut strongly recommends Mr. Ferrin as an excellent candidate for the work that he is to undertake.

Though Mr. Ferrin never has had previous experience in supervising or superintending the work he has taken special courses to fit him for such occupation, and is regarded by those in charge of educational affairs here and in Brooklyn as an excellent candidate for the work that he is to undertake.

Mr. Ferrin is expected to take up his duties here immediately after the first of the new year.

At St. Alban's church Sunday morning, at the communion service, duplicated in Episcopal churches throughout the state, a notable feature was the presence and participation of Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson of Danville. Their presence at this service today is a source of inspiration for all others who came to attend it, for Mr. Thompson, at 102 years of age, is Killingly's oldest citizen, and his wife is in her 99th year. Both are remarkably active and hale, and their faculties in a degree little less than amazing, considering their advanced years. They were conveyed in the automobile of A. L. Reed from their home to the service at St. Alban's. The weather considered, many attended the service, which was of special inspirational interest.

The coming year—1922—will witness the 100th anniversary of the organizing of the Windham National bank, a fact that has inspired the officials of the institution to make special emphasis of the anniversary. This bank, after 100 years of service, is as active and viable as in its youth, and today is an institution greater than the founders realized that it might become. It is one of the county institutions that has gained in strength with the years.

Late November days, and the approach of December brings to this territory the halcyon days of the trapper, who is up early mornings, before the sun rises over the eastern hills, and who is out on rainy days like Sunday, tramping his traps, while other doze about warm rooms or content themselves with the comforts of the club. The true trapper takes no account of weather, and this is as it should be. Rain, snow, ice or hail figure not a tail in his calendar of affairs. His season is at hand and he makes the most of it—something that might be taken into consideration and given due thought by milady who nicks out a brisk, sunny, winter afternoon for a stroll, downtown to display her fur, gathered by hardy citizens under such difficulties as wind, rain, snow, ice or hail, and who, when she returns, has the thought of stunning fur to a climate where they are not needed or cared for.

This particular trapping season, now opening for its best, finds a number of Killingly citizens engaged in the work. Muskrat pelts, a few mink and other, fox, weasel and other animals' pelts are being harvested in Windham county, not to mention muskrat, which will appear later as martens, and many other pelts of lesser value all of which will find a ready sale at prices such as each season's market affords.

N BED EIGHT MONTHS

Change of Life. How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Got Me Up

Afton, Tenn.—"I want other suffering women to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. During the Change of Life I was in bed for eight months and two good doctors treating me but they did me no good. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did and in a short time felt better. I had all kinds of bad spells, but they all left me. Now when I feel weak and nervous I take the Vegetable Compound and it always does me good. I wish all women would try it during the Change of Life for I know it will do them good."

—Mrs. A. KELLER, Afton, Tennessee.

Women from forty-five to fifty years of age should take warning from such symptoms as heat flashes, palpitation of the heart, smothering or fainting spells, or spots before the eyes, and prepare to meet the system for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has helped many, many women through this trying period, just as it did Mrs. Keller.

In this territory that has been closed since last Wednesday evening, the eve of a holiday, will resume operations this (Monday) week, and another indication that the schools at Thompsonville, Conn., have been spending a few days at her home near here.

Arthur G. Pearson of Providence visited with friends in Danielson over Sunday.

Rev. Victor Faure, M. S., private interpreter and chaplain with the French army during the world war, in which he saw extremely arduous service, and a former assistant at St. James' parish, has been spending a few days at St. James' rectory. He was celebrant of one of the masses at the church Sunday morning.

Miss Emily Williams of New Haven has been spending a few days with relatives in Danielson.

Herbert Baehner returned here Sunday after spending the period since his holiday with relatives in New Haven.

A drill of the service battery will be held at the state armory Tuesday evening.

A large collection of ducks shot on a Saturday hunting on the Connecticut shore attracted attention when displayed in a window at the Spa, Saturday evening. Black, mallard and brown ducks were included in the lot. Harold Atwood was a member of the party that brought in the game.

Blasts at the ledges east of here rattled windows in Danielson's houses, when rocks were being blown during the forenoon hours of Saturday morning.

There were no arrests in Danielson during the week, and another indication that the people of the borough are not given to undue celebration at such periods as is the custom in many towns.

Prosecuting Attorney Arthur G. Bill, who has been spending several days in Dover, N. H., is expected to return here today.

John A. Howell of Worcester was a visitor with friends in Danielson over Sunday.

A rainy Saturday and Sunday made a dreary week and for the great majority of people of the borough.

A. W. Bassett has returned to his home here after spending a short period in Boston.

Schools in the town of Killingly will open this (Monday) morning after the Thanksgiving recess, which has extended since Wednesday afternoon. Studies will now be continued until the Christmas vacation period, which will extend over the first of the new year.

PUTNAM

The estate of the late Mrs. Anne Maria Lewin, widow of Edgar Lewin, a veteran of the Civil war, inventories $10,719.42, according to the appraisers, Joseph D. Flagg and Luther M. Keith. The estate consists of two houses on Bridge street, Putnam, a farm in Pomfret and money in savings banks. Mrs. Lewin died in a Norwich hospital. Under Mrs. Lewin's will her niece, Mrs. Lucy Smith of Pomfret, receives a life use of the estate, and Mrs. Smith's daughter, Mrs. Ethel Spink of Eastford is left the remainder.

Judge M. H. Gelseler is executor of the estate.

Building activities are slowly reviving in Putnam. A new building on School street for store purposes; Arthur Robitaille is finishing a brick structure on Front and School streets to be used as a garage and service station; the Eastern Bank is planning to erect a new building for store purposes on Front street. The most recent announcement of buildings in contemplation is that one is to be erected on Providence street by Adair Perry of North Grosvenordale.

controversies which may arise among nations, must be greeted with joy and the strong hope of a better future for humanity.

LAST WEEK'S DEVELOPMENTS AS TO THE NAVAL PROPOSALS

Washington, Nov. 27. (By the A. P.)—With the question of land armaments definitely thrust into the background by the developments of the last week, the conference on limitation of armaments will enter its third week tomorrow with another stride toward agreement on naval limitations foreshadowed.

The naval question at least so far as its most vital element, the "5-5-3 ratio" of fleet strength between Great Britain, the United States, and Japan is concerned, is approaching the point of transfer back to the "Big Five" committee with the report of the naval experts on the facts involved. There is some expectation that a plenary session of the conference itself will be called during the week to reach final decisions on the naval limitation plan.

Whether the experts of the three major naval powers will submit individual reports is not known. There is nothing to indicate whether they are agreed as to the facts and figures they have been studying.

A summary of last week's developments as to the naval proposals indicated the following situation:

American officials have seen no reason in arguments advanced by Japan to warrant any changes in the keystone of the agreement Mr. Hughes proposed, the "5-5-3" strength ratio.

British naval officials have accepted this ratio, although it means ultimate equalization of the American and British fleets in power.

Japanese officials have opposed the American ratio, immediate or future. Unofficially, the Japanese status instead of the American ratio, immediate or future. Unofficially, the Japanese status instead of the American ratio, immediate or future.

American naval opinion strongly opposes retention by Japan of the battle-ship Mitsu unless both other powers similarly and in due proportion enlarge their fleets to be retained during the ten year holiday in building. There are indications that some members of the American delegation which will decide the American attitude see strength in the arguments of Japan that the Mitsu might have been included as a completed ship in the retained fleets. There was nothing to indicate, however, that a compromise was being considered in the American opinion as to this point.

The American and British expert views on this point have not been revealed. The next step, when the three groups of experts have concluded their work, will be their report to the armament committee.

So far as the Mitsu is concerned, the Japanese have contended that she was completed ship on November 11, the American and British expert views on this point have not been revealed.

The next step, when the three groups of experts have concluded their work, will be their report to the armament committee.

FORTY BOSTON MOTORCYCLE POLICEMEN HUNT BANDIT

Boston, Nov. 27.—The highways and byways of New England were under police surveillance last night in the belief that a dangerous bandit and four men in an automobile with broken windshield were speeding with the $28,444 payroll they stole in front of the A. G. Walton & Co. shoe factories at Chelsea this forenoon.

The money was snatched from messengers of the First National bank of Boston as it was carried into the office shortly after 2 o'clock. Tossing the pouch into the tonneau of a waiting automobile, the bandits exchanging shots with the messengers and their guard, sped away. To be seen later passing through Winchester. Then the machine disappeared.

Col. Alfred F. Foote, commissioner of public safety, had 40 of the state's motorcycle policemen scouring the roads of the Commonwealth tonight. This was the request the police in southern New Hampshire and Rhode Island towns were also watching.

Colonel Foote said tonight that the car had been "identified" while passing through Winchester by a steamroller operator, who reported that one of its occupants was being supported in the rear seat by his companion. This was said to substantiate the belief that one of the bandits had been shot in the neck by Charles Pompey, the guard of the bank delivery car.

When the messengers' machine arrived at the office door, the bandit car was standing a short distance away. It was seated three men and two others were standing idly a short distance away. When the bank car turned into the street four of the men walked slowly toward the shoe factory. As the messengers rounded the corner, carrying the money pouch, they were fired upon by three of the bandits. One of the latter snatched the pouch, hurried to the automobile and tossed the money inside.

He was closely followed by his companions, who were exchanging revolver shots with one of the messengers and Pompey. A bullet of the latter's weapon broke the windshield of the bandits' machine, and is believed to have hit one of the occupants.

Colonel Foote said this evening that nothing had been heard of the bandits since they were seen at Winchester.

THREE MEN HELD FOR SHOOTING IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Nov. 27.—One Philadelphia youth and two from New England are being held by local police following the shooting of Vincent Hanley, a guard, in Fairmount park. Hanley died shortly afterward.

The three under arrest are William Presbury, 18, South Boston, Max Herman, 18, Philadelphia, and James Hastings, said to be a native of Vermont. The last has been accused of the shooting.

Hanley was directing traffic at the entrance of the park when the youths in what the police allege was a stolen automobile, sped by without regard to signposts and collided with the min car, commanded automobile.

He overtook the car two blocks away, ordering the driver to produce his license card. Instead of obeying, however, one of the youths opened fire.

All three were taken into custody within a short time after the shooting.

SEVEN SALOONS IN WATERBURY RAIDED

Waterbury, Nov. 27.—Jonathan Eno, state prohibition enforcement officer, accompanied by ten of his deputies from New Haven and Hartford, and four members of the local police force descended on this city yesterday and visited seven saloons, in three of which liquor was alleged to have been found. The places where it is alleged liquor was found, was that of John W. Fogarty, 171 East Main street, Frank Bergin, 273 Cherry street, and Joseph Perrault, 30 East Main street.

BRIAND DID NOT SPEAK
SLIGHTLY OF ITALY
Washington, Nov. 27 (By the A. P.)—Emphatic denial was made tonight by M. Viviani, head of the French delegation, of reports that Premier Briand had spoken in a slighting manner of Italy or of the Italian delegation in a private meeting of the conference. Anti-French demonstrations in a number of Italian cities have been attributed to publication of these reports.

Members of the French delegation recalled that the premier had delayed his departure for New York twelve hours in order to dine at the Italian embassy last Wednesday evening.
